

Customer Support FAQ

General Support

Q: How can I contact customer support?

Customers can contact customer support through the available support channel, support portal, registered email address, or other officially provided communication methods.

Q: What information should I provide when contacting support?

Customers should provide their registered email address, order reference number, and a clear description of the issue. Additional information may be requested depending on the type of request.

Q: How can I check the status of my support request?

Customers can check their request status through the available support portal or by contacting customer support with their support request or order reference number.

Q: How long does customer support take to respond?

Response time may vary depending on the type and complexity of the request, the information provided, and current support volume.

Q: What should I do if I do not receive a response?

Customers should check their registered email address and support notifications. If no response is received within the expected support period, the customer can contact support again using the original request reference.

Order Questions

Q: How can I check my order status?

Customers can check their order status through the available order management or tracking system using the order reference number.

Q: What should I do if my order is delayed?

Customers should first check the latest tracking information. If the order remains delayed beyond the expected delivery period, they can contact customer support with the order reference number.

Q: Can I change my order after placing it?

Order changes may be possible while the order is still in an eligible processing stage. Customers should contact support as soon as possible because changes may not be possible after packing or dispatch.

Q: Can I cancel my order?

Customers may request cancellation while the order is still within the permitted cancellation stage. Orders that have already been dispatched, delivered, or completed may not be eligible for cancellation.

Q: What should I do if I receive the wrong product?

Customers should contact support with the order reference and details of the incorrect product. Photographs or other information may be requested to verify the issue.

Q: What should I do if an item is missing from my order?

Customers should contact support and provide the order reference and details of the missing item. The support team may verify the order and fulfillment records before providing a resolution.

Delivery Questions

Q: How can I track my delivery?

Customers can use the available tracking system with the order or shipment reference provided after dispatch.

Q: What should I do if my tracking information has not been updated?

Tracking updates may take some time to appear. If tracking remains unchanged beyond the expected period, customers can contact support with the order reference and tracking information.

Q: What happens if delivery fails?

A failed delivery may result from an incorrect address, unavailable recipient, inaccessible location, or other delivery issues. The delivery provider may make another attempt or provide further delivery instructions.

Q: Can I change my delivery address?

Customers may request an address change before the order is dispatched. Once the order has been dispatched, an address change may no longer be possible.

Q: What should I do if my package arrives damaged?

Customers should report the damage to support as soon as possible and provide the order reference and photographs of the damaged package or product when requested.

Q: What should I do if my order shows as delivered but I have not received it?

Customers should contact support with the order reference and delivery details. The support team may review the delivery records and investigate the issue with the applicable delivery provider.

Return Questions

Q: Can I return my product?

Eligible products may be returned when the request meets the applicable return requirements, including the permitted return period, product condition, and reason for return.

Q: How long do I have to request a return?

Customers may request a return within the applicable return period specified in the Return & Replacement Policy.

Q: How do I submit a return request?

Customers can submit a return request through the available support channel or order management system by providing the order reference, registered email address, product details, and reason for return.

Q: Do I need approval before returning a product?

Customers should wait for return approval and instructions before sending a product back.

Q: What condition should a returned product be in?

Returned products should generally be in their original condition and include applicable accessories, components, packaging, and other supplied items unless the return relates to a verified defect or damage.

Q: Who is responsible for return shipping?

Return shipping responsibility may depend on the reason for the return and the applicable return conditions. Customers should follow the return instructions provided by support.

Replacement Questions

Q: Can I request a replacement instead of a refund?

Customers may request a replacement for eligible defective, damaged, incorrect, or otherwise qualifying products when replacement is available.

Q: What happens if the replacement product is unavailable?

If the same product is unavailable, the support team may provide an alternative resolution according to the applicable return and replacement conditions.

Q: Do I need to return the original product before receiving a replacement?

In some cases, the original product must be returned and verified before the replacement is dispatched. Customers will receive the applicable return instructions from support.

Q: What should I do if the replacement is also defective or damaged?

Customers should contact support promptly and provide the replacement order reference and details of the issue. Additional evidence may be requested for verification.

Refund Questions

Q: Can I request a refund?

Customers may request a refund when the purchase and refund request meet the eligibility requirements specified in the Refund Policy.

Q: How do I request a refund?

Customers can submit a refund request through the available support channel by providing the order reference, registered email address, reason for the refund, and any required supporting information.

Q: How long does a refund take?

Approved refunds are normally processed within the applicable refund processing period. The time required for the amount to appear in the customer's account may depend on the payment provider or financial institution.

Q: Where will my refund be sent?

Approved refunds are normally returned to the original payment method used for the purchase.

Q: Why was my refund request rejected?

A refund request may be rejected when the purchase is outside the applicable refund period, the product is not eligible, required information is missing, or the reported issue cannot be verified.

Q: What should I do if my refund has not arrived?

Customers should check the original payment account and allow the applicable processing period. If the refund remains unavailable after that period, they should contact support with the order and refund reference details.

Cancellation Questions

Q: Can I cancel my order after placing it?

Customers can request cancellation while the order remains within the permitted cancellation stage. Cancellation may not be possible after dispatch or completion.

Q: How do I know if my cancellation was successful?

Customers should wait for cancellation confirmation. An order should not be considered cancelled until confirmation has been received.

Q: Will I automatically receive a refund after cancellation?

Cancellation and refund are separate processes. If payment has already been collected, the cancelled order will be reviewed to determine whether a refund is applicable.

Q: Can I cancel only one item from my order?

Partial cancellation may be available when supported and when the individual item has not reached a non-cancellable processing stage.

Payment Questions

Q: What payment methods are supported?

Customers can use the payment methods available during checkout. Available options may vary depending on location, order type, currency, and transaction requirements.

Q: What should I do if my payment fails?

Customers should verify their payment information and try an available payment method again. If the issue continues, they can contact their bank, payment provider, or customer support.

Q: What if money was deducted but my order was not confirmed?

Customers should retain the transaction reference and payment details and contact support. The payment status will be verified before determining whether the transaction was completed, failed, or reversed.

Q: What should I do if I was charged twice?

Customers should provide the order reference and transaction details to support. If a duplicate successful payment is confirmed, the applicable excess amount may be refunded.

Q: Can I request a billing correction?

Customers can contact support if they identify an incorrect billing amount, duplicate charge, incorrect tax, missing discount, or other billing discrepancy.

Account and Information Questions

Q: What email address should I use when contacting support?

Customers should use the registered email address associated with their account or order whenever possible.

Q: Why does support ask for my order reference number?

The order reference allows support agents to identify the correct order and verify its status, payment information, delivery details, and related requests.

Q: What information should I not share with customer support?

Customers should not share passwords, card PINs, one-time passwords, security codes, or other confidential authentication credentials with support agents.

Q: What should I do if I notice an unauthorized payment?

Customers should contact their bank or payment provider immediately and provide the relevant transaction information to customer support when available.

Issue Escalation

Q: What should I do if my issue is not resolved by customer support?

Customers can request further review or escalation through the available support process and provide the original support request reference and relevant details.

Q: Can I reopen a support request?

A customer may contact support regarding an unresolved issue using the existing request reference when reopening or continuing the request is supported.

Q: What information is required for escalation?

Customers should provide the support request reference, order reference where applicable, previous communication details, and a clear explanation of the unresolved issue.

Q: How are support disputes handled?

Support disputes are reviewed using the available order, payment, delivery, return, cancellation, and communication records relevant to the request.

General Customer Support

Q: Can I contact support about an issue not covered in the FAQ?

Yes. Customers can contact support for issues not specifically addressed in the FAQ. The support team may request additional information to understand and resolve the issue.

Q: What happens after I submit a support request?

The request is reviewed by the support team. The customer may receive a response, request for additional information, resolution, or instructions for the next required step.

Q: Why does support request additional information?

Additional information may be required to verify the customer, order, payment, delivery issue, return request, refund request, or other support-related concern.

Q: How should I describe my issue to support?

Customers should provide a clear description of the issue, relevant order or transaction reference, date of the issue, and any supporting information requested by support.

Q: What should I do if I entered incorrect information in my support request?

Customers should contact support as soon as possible and provide the correct information along with the original support request or order reference.

Q: Can support provide information about another customer's order?

Support can provide order-specific information only after the applicable customer and order verification requirements have been satisfied.

Q: How can I get help for an urgent order issue?

Customers should contact the available customer support channel and provide the order reference and a clear description of the urgent issue so that the request can be reviewed appropriately.