

Order Policy

Order Placement

Customers can place orders by selecting the required product or service, adding it to the order, providing the required delivery and contact information, and completing the available payment process.

Customers are responsible for reviewing the selected products, quantities, prices, delivery details, and order information before confirming the order.

An order is considered successfully placed only after the system confirms the order and the required payment has been successfully processed.

Customers should retain the order reference number received after placing an order for future order-related communication and tracking.

Order Confirmation

After an order is successfully placed, customers receive an order confirmation containing relevant order details.

The confirmation may include the order reference number, purchased products or services, quantities, total amount, payment status, delivery information, and expected delivery details.

Customers should verify the confirmation information and contact support promptly if any important order information is incorrect.

An order confirmation indicates that the order has been successfully recorded but does not necessarily mean that the order has already been dispatched.

Order Information Requirements

Customers must provide accurate information required to process and deliver the order.

Required information may include the customer's name, registered email address, contact number, billing information, and delivery address where applicable.

Customers are responsible for ensuring that the provided delivery address and contact information are complete and accurate.

Incorrect or incomplete information may result in delivery delays, failed delivery, or the need for additional verification.

Customers should update or report incorrect order information as soon as possible after placing the order.

Order Processing

After confirmation, the order is reviewed and processed for fulfillment.

Order processing may include payment verification, product availability verification, order validation, packaging, preparation, and dispatch.

Processing time may vary depending on product availability, order volume, service requirements, and other operational factors.

Customers may receive an update when the order moves from processing to dispatch or another applicable fulfillment stage.

Orders that require additional verification may remain on hold until the required information is confirmed.

Product Availability

Orders are subject to product or service availability at the time of processing.

If a selected product becomes unavailable after an order has been placed, the customer may be contacted regarding the available options.

Depending on the circumstances, an unavailable item may be substituted, removed from the order, or cancelled according to the applicable order conditions.

Customers will be informed when an availability issue materially affects the order.

Order Changes

Customers may request changes to an order before the order reaches a stage where modification is no longer possible.

Possible changes may include product quantity, selected item, delivery information, or other order details.

Order changes are subject to product availability and processing status.

Once an order has been packed, dispatched, delivered, or otherwise finalized, changes may no longer be possible.

Customers should contact support as soon as possible if an order needs to be modified.

Order Cancellation

Customers may request cancellation of an order before it is processed to a stage where cancellation is no longer possible.

Cancellation requests must include the order reference number and registered customer information.

An order that has already been dispatched or completed may not be eligible for cancellation.

The customer will receive confirmation when a cancellation request has been accepted.

If payment has already been collected and the cancelled order is eligible for a refund, the applicable refund will be processed according to the Refund Policy.

Order Verification

Orders may be subject to verification before fulfillment.

The verification process may include checking the order reference, customer information, payment status, product availability, billing information, and delivery details.

Additional information may be requested when an order contains incomplete, inconsistent, or unusual information.

An order may be placed on hold while verification is in progress.

Orders that cannot be successfully verified may be delayed or cancelled.

Payment and Order Processing

Orders requiring payment are processed only after the applicable payment has been successfully authorized or completed.

A failed, declined, reversed, or incomplete payment may prevent the order from being confirmed or processed.

Customers should verify their payment information when a payment failure occurs.

If an amount is deducted but the order is not confirmed, the customer should retain the transaction details and contact support for verification.

Payment-related issues may require confirmation from the applicable payment provider before the order status can be updated.

Order Status

Customers can track the progress of their order using the order reference number or the available order tracking system.

Common order statuses may include pending, confirmed, processing, packed, dispatched, out for delivery, delivered, cancelled, or completed.

The order status is updated as the order moves through the fulfillment process.

A pending status may indicate that payment verification, order verification, or another processing step is still in progress.

Customers can contact support if the order status does not change within the expected processing period.

Order Tracking

Customers may use the tracking information provided after dispatch to monitor the progress of their order.

Tracking information may include the order reference, shipment reference, carrier information, current delivery status, and estimated delivery information where available.

Tracking updates may not appear immediately after dispatch and can take time to be reflected in the tracking system.

Customers should contact support if tracking information remains unavailable or unchanged for an extended period.

Delivery Information

Orders are delivered to the address provided by the customer during the ordering process.

Customers are responsible for ensuring that the delivery address is accurate, complete, and accessible.

Estimated delivery dates are provided for guidance and may be affected by processing time, carrier delays, weather, public holidays, or other circumstances.

Customers should ensure that someone is available to receive the order when required.

Delivery may be delayed when the address is incomplete, incorrect, inaccessible, or unavailable for successful delivery.

Incorrect or Missing Order Items

Customers should review the delivered order after receiving it.

If an order contains an incorrect product, incorrect quantity, or missing item, the customer should contact support with the order reference and details of the issue.

Supporting information such as photographs, packaging details, or delivery information may be requested for verification.

The support team will review the order records and determine the appropriate resolution.

The resolution may include correction of the order, replacement of the affected item, or another applicable solution depending on the circumstances.

Damaged Orders

Customers should report visible damage to an order as soon as possible after delivery.

The customer may be required to provide photographs of the damaged packaging, product, and order details.

The support team may review the submitted evidence and delivery information to verify the reported damage.

Orders confirmed as damaged during handling or delivery may qualify for an appropriate resolution according to the applicable order terms.

Damage caused after successful delivery through misuse or improper handling may not qualify for an order-related claim.

Failed Delivery

An order may be considered a failed delivery when the carrier or delivery service cannot complete delivery.

Failed delivery may occur because of an incorrect address, unavailable recipient, inaccessible location, refused delivery, or other delivery-related circumstances.

Customers may be contacted when additional information is required to complete delivery.

Repeated failed delivery attempts may result in the order being returned or cancelled.

Any applicable refund or additional processing following a failed delivery will depend on the circumstances of the order.

Order Rejection or Cancellation by the Seller

An order may be rejected or cancelled when the product is unavailable, payment cannot be verified, required customer information is incomplete, or the order cannot be fulfilled.

Orders may also be cancelled when technical, operational, or verification issues prevent successful processing.

Customers will be informed when an order is cancelled after confirmation whenever notification is possible.

If payment has already been collected for an order that is cancelled by the seller and the order qualifies for a refund, the applicable amount will be processed according to the Refund Policy.

Duplicate Orders

Customers who accidentally place the same order more than once should contact support as soon as possible.

The customer should provide the order references for the duplicate orders so that the support team can verify the transactions.

Cancellation of a duplicate order is subject to its current processing status.

If a duplicate order has already been processed or dispatched, cancellation may no longer be possible and further resolution may be required.

Order Records

Order records may include the order reference, customer information, purchased items, quantities, payment status, order status, delivery information, and relevant processing updates.

Customers should retain their order confirmation and reference number until the order has been successfully completed.

The order reference should be provided when contacting support so that the relevant order can be identified efficiently.

Customer Support for Orders

Customers can contact customer support for assistance with order placement, order confirmation, order changes, cancellation requests, order status, tracking, delivery issues, incorrect items, missing items, damaged orders, and other order-related concerns.

Customers should provide their order reference number and registered email address when contacting support.

Support agents may request additional information to verify the order and determine the appropriate resolution.

Customers should report order-related issues as soon as possible after they are identified.

All order-related requests are reviewed according to the conditions and requirements specified in this Order Policy.
